VINCENT MAGLIONE

Designer, developer, all-around nice fella

Since 2006, I've launched Web experiences for a diverse clientele that includes other design and development shops, marketing organizations, nonprofits, and Fortune 500 companies.

I love the Web, open source, and user experience design. I don't claim to know everything, but I'm a voracious learner, and I'm always studying some aspect of design or programming in an effort to improve. (I'm a pretty quick study, too!)

Interests include art, business, and technology—and especially the place where all those things intersect.

WORK HISTORY

Morrison Agency
Senior Front-End Developer
OCTOBER 2016 – PRESENT

I've worked with the talented folks at Morrison to launch web stuff for international clients like Mitsubishi Electric and Samsung. Accomplishments include:

- Implemented deploy tools and improved internal workflows
- Contributed to documentation to aid other developers
- Built complex marketing materials under very tight deadlines
- Built custom marketing automation API integrations

Big Sweater
Independent
2006 – 2016

In the last ten years, my freelance practice has evolved from producing simple marketing websites to more advanced CMS-based sites using WordPress and other technologies; now, I'm consulting and contracting under the Big Sweater banner. Projects have included:

- WordPress plug-ins and themes
- Javascript and jQuery solutions to marketing problems
- Open source contributions (and even a few of my own projects)
- Brand identities

Home Decorators Collection
Consultant, Designer/Developer
FEBRUARY 2014 – SEPTEMBER 2015

Home Decorators Collection, a Home Depot company, brought me on board to assist with the launch of their newly-redesigned website, and I ended up staying for almost two years. Working with the HDC team, I:

- Improved developer productivity by implementing modern tools and workflows, and by writing extensive documentation, saving the front-end team enormous amounts of time
- Implemented development best practices, introducing the team to tools like Git for version control and Vagrant for isolated, reproducible development environments
- Consulted with management to vet new hires
- Oversaw new front-end hire training
- Improved the UX of critical website sections
- Designed, built, and deployed Web assets
- Designed, built, and deployed marketing emails, many reaching an audience of over 1 million users

Partners Marketing Group
Designer/Developer
2008 – 2014

Partners Marketing Group is a local marketing agency with a diverse array of clients, including colleges and universities, law firms, and industrial manufacturers. With Partners, I:

- Completed many projects with tight deadlines, sometimes simultaneously
- Designed and developed custom JavaScript and WordPress solutions for their clients' marketing needs
- Worked to ensure their WordPress sites were up to the standards of modern best practices, including responsive design and development
- Trained clients on the daily use of WordPress and our custom plug-ins and themes

Woven Interactive
Front-End Developer
2009 – 2011

Woven is a group of talented designers and developers working with large clients, including IHG, Cox Communications, and Turner Broadcasting. Working with Woven, I:

- Produced images, HTML, and CSS under tight deadlines
- Assisted in the production of microsites, mobile sites (this was before responsive really took off), and marketing assets

HEY. LET'S LAUNCH SOME AWESOME WEB STUFF.
